

Original Sprout Hair Care for Kids

One of my twin daughters has stick-straight blond hair while the other is a brunette with a thick mane of curly ringlets. During the morning routine the blond is pretty easy — a quick comb through and she is good to go. The curly brunette however, takes a little more work to get camera ready and I have learned that the easiest (and least painful) way to brush her hair is to use a gentle leave-in conditioning agent.

I recently picked up a bottle of Original Sprout Detangler and it works like a charm! It was developed by a mom and is 100% vegan and made of all natural ingredients and free from all ammonia and chemicals. It also smells absolutely amazing! If you have a curly little one at home you might want to check it out. I am off to order some of their other all natural hair care products. Will keep you posted.

-Dina

Dina in NYC | June 30, 2010 | 6 Comments | Email This Post

Category: Beauty, For Mums